THE following memorial includes but a meagre outline of the families represented herein, although the compiler is in possession of the requisite material for quite an extended, if not exhaustive, history of the same. But for the purpose intended at the outset, a simple pedigree of each particular branch, with its accompanying collaterals, was considered sufficient to gratify the desire of the originator, and to transmit not only to the present, but preserve to future generations a knowledge of those from whom they are descended; which desire is not only commenable, but is becoming more and more universal in others: indeed it has assumed a contagious and epidemic form, and many of our public libraries are already filled with excellent genealogical works and historical reminiscences of our early and honored ancestry.

The intermarriages between the White, Haskell and Coombs families, from their earliest notice, cannot fail to attract the reader with uncommon interest; and it is a leading motive that such an arrangement of these families in their order has been introduced, to show this long existing affinity between them.

It is regretted that the history of the first Thomas White cannot be traced farther back with certainty, as a suspicion exists in the mind of the compiler that he is not the earliest representative of his race in this country, although the records have been thoroughly scanned for that purpose without favorable results. And it is further regretted that both the church and town records of Marblehead are so sadly wanting in many particulars to supply the missing data especially noticed in the early history of these families.

The complete identification of the first Mark Haskell of Marblehead with the Haskells of Beverly (with whom he was from the first supposed to be in some way connected) was attended with a long and rather perplexing research, the elucidation of which is shown in its proper place, and was the result of a sudden flash of thought while engaged about another matter, after all attempts in that direction were nearly abandoned. Without such evidence, the history would be deemed incomplete and unsatisfactory.

In committing this book to the reader's attention, the hope is cherished that further investigations by others will throw more light upon the earlier history of these families ; and that the work in all its branches and details will eventually be carried on to successful completion.

EXPLANATION.

Thomas White is the first generation. His descendants who bear the family name stand in numerical order from himself to No. 79.

Small figures at the end of a name, thus, "THOMAS,²" indicate the generation to which the individual belongs.

Figures in parentheses placed before a name, forming the subject of a distinct notice, thus, "(2) THOMAS," denote the numerical order in which he stands, and will be found by turning back to that number.

Names in the family group, printed in large capitals, thus, "2. THOMAS,²" i. e., number 2, Thomas, second generation, will be understood as subjects of future treatment, and may be found forward, under that generation, with the same number enclosed in parentheses before the name.

DESCENDANTS OF THOMAS WHITE.

THE
OF MARBLEHEAD, MASS.

FIRST GENERATION.

(1) Thomas White¹ appears, after an extensive and careful search of the county, local and other records, to stand as the patriarchal head of this branch of the White family, of Marblehead. Savage says he settled in Marblehead in 1668; and the tradition that he was a native of Wales is not as yet substantiated by any positive evidence based on history. Other families by the name lived contemporaneously with Thomas in Salem, Wenham, Haverhill, Andover, and other towns in Essex, as well as in Suffolk county. There was an Elias White, who may have been a brother of Thomas, who was of Marblehead about 1660, perhaps earlier, and who married Mary, the widow of Christopher Codner, June 26, 1661; but evidently he left no issue. He was living as late as 1679; after which date nothing more is known of him, and there appears to be no settlement of his estate on record.

Resolved White, a brother to Peregrine, of Pilgrim fame, lived in Scituate, and afterwards removed to Salem, where he married, for his second wife, Abigail, the widow of William Lord. An examination of the foregoing family records proves him not to have been connected with these branches of the White family.

Mr. White was styled on the records as both a fisherman and planter; and his homestead is described as being at or near what has always been known as the "Ferry," on the harbor side, and where his posterity, for nearly two hundred years, have lived and occupied the homestead. The earliest notice we have of him is in the Registry of Deeds for Essex county, Vol. III., p. 14, when (June 17, 1667) he bought of Thomas Calley, of Marblehead, for £14, three or four acres of land "on Darby fort side," bounded north on Salem harbor, east on land of Thomas Dixey, west on "John Peach the younger," and south on Benjamin Parminter. In 1674 he was in possession of a cow lease.

March 28, 1692, "Thomas White, Sr., Planter, and wife Remember," sold a strip of land to Francis Girdler, bounded on the harbor, land of Thomas and John Dickenson, and the said White.

May 8, 1707, he sold to George Girdler an acre of land in the "Ferry Lotts," which appears to have been his last conveyance in real estate.

Feb. 5, 1718-19, shortly after the decease of his widow, the following division of the homestead was made among the heirs, which transaction alone reveals or throws any light upon the history of his family, all other records being silent, and beginning with the births or baptisms of the second generation. The property in question consisted of two parcels of land and a dwelling-house near the ferry. The first piece, containing three acres and one hundred and twelve poles, with the house, was bounded on the highway and Salem harbor, the land of John Peach and Thomas White. The second piece, containing eighteen poles, lay on the eastern side of the highway—the whole being divided into nine lots, and portioned out as follows :

To Thomas White, shoreman, two lots, nine poles wide, with the house thereon ; to Benjamin White, fisherman, the third lot, five poles wide ; to Samuel White, fisherman, the fourth lot, six poles wide ; to Henry Grant, fisherman, and wife Mary, the fifth lot, five poles and three links wide ; to John Adams, shoreman, and wife Sarah, the sixth lot, five poles and ten links wide ; to Edward Norris, of Salem, turner, and wife Remember, the seventh lot, six poles wide; to Jeremiah Reed, Salem, fisherman, and wife Abigail, the eighth lot, bounded on the harbor, seven poles and seven links wide; and to John White, Marblehead, coaster, the ninth lot, eighteen poles wide, on the eastern side of the highway, and the cow's lease belonging thereto — the foregoing all being children of Thomas and Remember White.

Mr. White was born, as nearly as can be computed from the marriage of his son Thomas, about the year 1642, and administration on his estate was granted, Dec. 31, 1714, to his widow, who gave bonds in £200, with Samuel White and Francis Grant. Inventory of his estate, £107 6s., presented in court, June 30, 1715, by John Calley and Francis Grant.

He was a prize-master on board the ships Alfred and Alexander, both of Salem, and became prize-master of the French corvette "Invincible Napoleon," of 16 guns, which latter was originally a French government vessel from Bayonne, and after capturing eight prizes was taken by H. M. brig of war Mutine, after a hot contest. A few days after it was fallen in with by the "Alexander," when the British prize-crew surrendered without resistance. Mr. White was put in command of her as prize-master, and arrived off Cape Ann, Sunday morning, May 13, wind very light from the N. W. In the mean time, H. M. frigates "Shannon" and "Tenedos" were in the offing. Several boats from the frigates chased the ship in, it being nearly calm. The ship was run ashore on Norman's Woe, and the crew escaped being made prisoners. The corvette was got off by the frigates' boats, and on her way to Halifax was again captured by Privateer Young Feuzer, Capt. Johnson, of New York, and arrived at Portsmouth, N. H., May 26. Mr. White was among the prisoners in Dartmoor prison until the peace. He m. Dec. 24, 1815, Sarah, dau. of John and Sarah Savage, b. June 8, 1788, d. Feb. 18, 1866. No issue.

64. AMBROSE HASKELL,⁶ b. Dec. 17, 1800. He was a master mariner and supercargo ; sailed in the employ of the Hon. William Bartlett, of Newburyport, ten years. He followed the sea for thirty consecutive years, twelve of which were in the Batavia and China trade. His first experience of a sea life was in September, 1813, when he went as a supernumerary, with his uncle Thomas Haskell and his father and brother Philip, in the schooner Becca, belonging to his uncle, bound to the New Meadows River, State of Maine, for a cargo of wood. Being off Cape Ann in the evening, dark, and wind S. W., a cannon shot was fired through the mainsail, which brought the schooner to immediately, and it was soon after boarded by a ferocious-looking officer and boat's crew from H. M. Sloop Dart, all armed with pistols and cutlasses, to take a craft of sixty tons, three men and a boy. A thorough search ensued, which resulted in their conviction of the entire innocence of the four adventurers, and the comparative worthlessness of the prize, which they suffered to pass on without further molestation, after putting on board four prisoners to be cared for. Mr. White became a resident of Newburyport in 1824; removed to Boston in 1846, thence to Charlestown the same year; thence to Dorchester in 1854, and back to Boston in 1868, where he now resides. THE HASKELL FAMILY.

THE HASKELL FAMILY,

OF BEVERLY, GLOUCESTER AND MARBLEHEAD.

ROGER, WILLIAM, and MARK HASKELL, three brothers, are undoubtedly the patriarchal heads of the Haskell family of New England, and are found to be very early settlers at Beverly, where Roger had twenty acres of land granted him by the town of Salem, in 1636 — probably located not far from Essex Bridge. In 1643 John Hardy made application for a ten acre lot for his son Joseph, “about the Bass riuer,” and at the same time interceded for a grant of meadow land for Roger Haskell; and the selectmen gave him six acres. In 1646 Roger Haskell and William Dodge were appointed a committee “to call upon the neighbors about Bass riuer head to mend the two bridges w^{ch} are decayed, being the Country way, and the way w^{ch} was formerly made leading from Jo: Porters farme to Wenham.” In 1655 Roger was on the jury, and in 1657 chosen constable for Cape Ann side.

(1) ROGER HASKELL¹ was born in England in 1613, and died in Beverly in 1667. (For will, see Appendix.) He married, first, a daughter of John and Abigail Stone, of Beverly; m. second, Elizabeth, dau. of John and Elizabeth Hardy, of the same town. Mr. Hardy d. 1652, and mentions in his will son-in-law Roger Haskell and his four children, John, William, Mark and Elizabeth. He was a mariner, engaged in the fishing business, and had fish houses on Winter Island, Salem harbor. After Mr. Hardy's decease, his widow m. Edward Berry, Sen., who owned real estate on Essex Street, nearly opposite Derby Square, Salem. She died before 1683, and Mr. Berry, quite advanced in years, afterwards went to live with his son-in-law, Mark Haskell (son of Roger), in Beverly, where he spent the remainder of his days.

Register, Vol. III., p. 335, among the "early settlers of Middleboro'" is found the following item: "John Haskell and Francis Walker of that town, sons-in-law of George Soule, who was the thirty-fifth signer of the Compact at Cape Cod. He (Soule) was a member of Edward Winslow's family; sold his lands in Plymouth and removed to Duxbury before 1645, in which year he was one of the deputies from that town to General Court at Plymouth, and an original proprietor at Bridgewater." In 1668 he gave his lands in Middleboro' to said son-in-law and their wives Patience and Elizabeth. In Reg. Deeds for Essex, Vol. VIII., p. 92, we find that John Haskell, Sen., of Middleboro', sells to Mark Haskell, Sen., of Beverly, May 25, 1687, ten acres of upland at Draper's Point, "commonly called Gafford's land." He is undoubtedly the same as the said son-in-law of George Soule.

THE DESCENDANTS OF MARK HASKELL, OF BEVERLY, MASS.

FIRST GENERATION.

(1) MARK HASKELL,¹ brother to Roger and William, settled in Beverly, where he died 1668-9. His inventory was taken Jan. 27, of that year, by Thomas Lathrop and Richard Brackenbury, and presented in court, March 30, 1669. His clear estate was £370 8s. 3d. — £200 of which was awarded to his two sons, viz.:

“ William, the eldest, to have a double portion.

Mark, the youngest, the bal. of the £200.

Hannah Hascall to have £170 8^s 3^d.”

In the inventory there is mentioned a “ Ketch at sea,” which would be appraised on its arrival home, and rendered into court. An additional appraisement was rendered by Thomas Woodbury, William Hardy, and Hugh Woodbury, of Beverly. Some of the items mentioned in the list of debts due from the estate are as follows:

“ To John Budd, of Long Island.

To Mr. Brown, of Salem.

To his daughter in Law.

To William Haskell.

To John Haskell.

To Thomas Chubb.”

From the foregoing it would appear, by the mention of his daughter-in-law, that he had another son who died before him, perhaps without issue. Unfortunately, their names, with that of his father-in-law, were not mentioned.

Mark, Sen., was undoubtedly the younger of the three brothers. He appears to have been a mariner, and engaged in the fishing business. The first mention of his name is in the Salem Book of Grants, where, at a meeting of the selectmen, Feb. 24, 1656-7, he petitions that Jeffrey Massey and Mr. Conant should “ sett at reight the land that is in difference between him and Richard haines, & have power to Issue it.” His country, county and town rate for 1657, was 8s. 4d. He married Hannah —.

Two children : —

2. WILLIAM.²

3. MARK.²

SECOND GENERATION.

(3) MARK² (*Mark*¹), born in Beverly ; removed to Marblehead, 1696-7, where he died May, 1734. He was a coaster, and also a proprietor in the so-called Plain Farm, which farm first and last had elicited much controversy and litigation between the several proprietors respecting the boundaries of their farms. This farm consisted of six hundred acres, and was originally owned by John Humphrey, to whom it was granted by General Court, March 12, 1637, and partly bounded on Hugh Peters's farm and Coy Pond, which lies near, and on the western side of Legg's hill, Salem.

Sept. 5, 1710, "Mark Haskell, and his wife Charity, dau. of Ambrose Gale, dec'd," bought of Benjamin Gale and Benjamin James, children, and joint administrators of the estate of their late father Ambrose Gale, "a parcel of land in the Coy pond land, lying in the township of Salem."

Feb. 9, 1731, he and his wife Charity sold to their son Ambrose, a part of a certain garden formerly in the possession of Dea. Ambrose Gale, deceased, containing 80 ft. front and rear, and 54 ft. deep, bounded on land of Elizabeth Girdler, the street, and on Gale's meadow. The same day he sold the remainder to his son Mark.

June 25, 1717, he bought of his son-in-law, Abiel Pitman (son of John Pitman, deceased, first husband to Charity), for £17, all his right in the house of his father, "in which my said father-in-law now lives," with a parcel of land at the west end of it.

July 24, 1735, Charity Haskell, widow of Mark, sold to Hannah Goodwin, her daughter, 8 acres and 100 poles of land near Coy pond, which formerly belonged to Samuel Ward, and afterwards "to my father Ambrose Gale, and then descended to Deliverance James and unto me his two daughters," which land was surveyed and laid out March 20, 1704, by Samuel Gardner.

On the decease of Mr. Haskell, which occurred May, 1734, administration was not granted until July 24, 1738, to Samuel Harris, his son-in-law, who gave bonds with David Le Gallis, of Marblehead, and John Gaines, of Ipswich. Mr. Harris having died before the administration was completed, it was afterwards conferred, May 13, 1741, upon his widow, Hannah Harris. The following papers concerning the settlement of the estates of Mark Haskell and his widow, may not prove uninteresting to the reader, and we give them in full.

Mr. Haskell married, Jan. 7, 1697, Charity, dau. of Ambrose Gale, Sen., and widow of John Pitman, son of Thomas and Joan Pitman. She was baptized in the first church, Salem, Jan. 17, 1663-4, and d. Dec. 1739. She was a member of the first church, Marblehead, and was among the first dismissed to form the second church, under Rev. Edward Holyoke, in 1716. She m. first, May 5, 1681, John Pitman, b. about 1660. He was a mariner, and died at Barbadoes in the fall of 1696; and his inventory, taken Dec. 24, of that year, by John Legg and Samuel Russell, shows him to have been tolerably well conditioned in his personal estate. The following are some of the items of interest, viz.:

Six cane chairs, 6 Turkey work do., 1 great looking glass, 1 punch bowl, 1 pair white lace curtains, 11 pair sheets, 12 pr. pillow beers, 12 napkins, 3 silk blankets for children, 1 silver hilt sword and belt, 1 silver headed cane, 1 sword, 4 guns, books and instruments, some divinity books and 4 sea books, 3 gold buttons, 5 rings, house and garden with a shop and barn on the opposite side of the street.

His widow Charity was appointed administratrix of his estate, Dec. 28, 1696, and gave bonds in £400, with "William Peach, of Marblehead, and Mark Haskell of Beverly as sureties." It was a matter attended with much difficulty and research to establish the identity of this Mark of Marblehead with him of Beverly, till the original bond was at last found on file ; and by a recapitulation it will be seen that this son of Mark, Sen., alone stood unaccounted for ; one by the name having died in 1691, and the other removed to Rochester with a numerous family, where he was living after the marriage of the subject of this notice.

By her marriage to John Pitman, May 5, 1681, Charity had four children, viz. : —

NOTICE OF WILLIAM HASKELL.

WILLIAM HASKELL was a native of Marblehead, and supposed to be a descendant of Mark Haskell, of Beverly ; b. 1726, d. in Lynn, Nov. 9, 1809, aged 83 years. He was a shipwright, and pursued that occupation the greater part of his life, when, till the infirmities of age prevented, he took up the business of boating. It is remarked by Mr. John White, of Marblehead, one of the oldest living representatives of that family, that Mr. Haskell was always considered to be a cousin to his grandfather, John White, which, if true, would make him grandson to Mark Haskell who married Charity Pitman. He had often heard him spoken of by his father, as "old uncle Bill." He removed to Lynn about 1803, when, Dec. 5, of that year, he and his wife Ann sold to Peter Colman, of Marblehead, laborer, their one-fifth part of a dwelling house and land under it, near the powder house in Marblehead, bounded S. on the way to the Ferry, W. on the late Azor Orne, and N.

on Jesse Blanchard, with their rights in the estate of their late father, Peter Colman. Witnessed by James Gardner and Samuel Alley, Jr.

Mr. William Haskell married Ann, dau. of Peter and Ann Colman, of Marblehead.

THE COOMBS FAMILY.

A BRIEF notice of this family is here given, to more clearly show its relative connection with that of the White and Haskell Families, and which is interwoven with them from the first to almost the last generation in a remarkable degree. To this end it is not necessary to give more than a mere outline of its history, making use of such names as will serve to connect each family of the several lines or branches.

(1) HENRY COOMBS¹ was of Marblehead as early as Dec. 22, 1648, when he with others had lots laid out in the swamp. April 11, 1653, he sold a cow lease to John Legg, and in 1656 was chosen "way warden." In 1661 he had temporary charge of the Ferry, at which place he appears to have lived. In 1667 a complaint was made against him for uttering slanderous reports concerning Rev. Mr. Walton, of Marblehead, in saying that "he preached nothing but lies, and he could prove him to be a knave." (Co. Ct. Rec.)

FIRST AND SECOND CHURCHES IN MARBLEHEAD.

THE first church in Marblehead was built in 1649. "From the earliest records of this town, it appears that as early as 1648, when 'the Plantation,' as it was called, contained forty-four families, there was preaching among them by Mr. Walton." "Mr. Walton continued to officiate as a public teacher, though without ordination, about twenty years, till he was removed by death, in August or September, 1668, but a few weeks before the commencement of Mr. Cheever's labors."

"May 24, 1684. The brethren at Marblehead, finding a great inconveniency in going to Salem, with the unanimous concurrence of the congregation, applied themselves to Mr. Samuel Cheever, who had been the minister among them for fifteen years and a half past, that he would take the office of a pastor, and themselves might be congregated into a particular society, for the enjoyment of all the ordinances in this place orderly, as in other towns and places in the country."

The church was gathered Aug. 13, 1684, having fifty-four members. [Charity Pitman was one of the number.]

SAMUEL CHEEVER, who had preached in Marblehead sixteen years, was ordained Aug. 13, 1684. Mr. Cheever was born at New Haven, Conn., Sept. 22, 1639, graduated at Harvard College in 1659, and died in the ministry at Marblehead, May 29, 1724, in the 85th year of his age, and of his ministry the fiftieth. "It is said that for forty-eight years he was never hindered from performing the duties of his office a single Sabbath."

JOHN BARNARD was ordained colleague of Mr. Cheever, July 18, 1716. Mr. Barnard was born at Boston, Nov. 6, 1681, graduated at Harvard 1700, preached his first sermon Aug. 10, 1701, and died in the ministry at Marblehead, Jan. 24, 1770, in the 89th year of his age, and of his ministry the fifty-fourth.
